

I have decided to make the project after the “stay away” project I’m going to make an animation based off of dantdm

Why? Because he’s not only my childhood but also is the type of creator who likes making the content that he’s making instead of listening to the algorithm which is pretty sweet, he doesn’t care about views anymore he just wants people to enjoy his content

So I decided to make an animation of him later about him in his classic minecraft style transforming into the blue haired style ( like a super saiyan blue transformation ) or maybe an animation where he fights against evil treyours again and after seeing grim or treyours die he’ll turn into his zombie form

I think the zombie form thing would be too directed on his older works and nostalgia which he shouldn’t be so I’ll mix his hair change to dragon ball style transformation because that’s just something I haven’t seen and would really like to make it if nobody else is going to

Update

The project you see next to this document is not what I intended but an English presentation about famous people

I didn't want to make a generic power point presentation because I thought I could do more than that

So I failed miserably at making an animation about it instead

But AT LEAST the project had a part of an animation I was able to reuse in the future for the Captainsauce rough outline video